ALEX BUONASSISI

Associate | B.A.Sc. (Electrical Engineering)

Alex Buonassisi uses his experience in electrical and software engineering to assist clients with all matters related to intellectual property. His clients range from garage inventors to large corporations. Alex uses his unique background and experience to develop innovative and tailored solutions for his clients' needs.

Alex mostly works with clients developing software or electrical hardware. He supports his clients by drafting and prosecuting patent applications, providing infringement opinions, and freedom to operate opinions.

Prior to entering law, Alex worked for over five years with a national telecommunications company, where he practiced electrical engineering, software engineering, and corporate strategy. Alex also has work experience developing software systems for the logistics industry, designing consumer hardware devices, and developing integrated circuits.
